RE: Military Religious Freedom Foundation
Mikey Weinstein

Dear Mr. Starnes:

As you know from prior communications, our office represents Mikey Weinstein and the Military Religious Freedom Foundation.

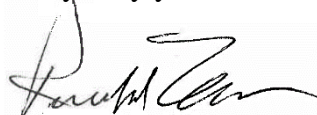

Over the weekend, you again referred to the Foundation as an atheist organization.

There was a time when I thought perhaps you were innocently confusing the Military Religious Freedom Foundation (MRFF) with a separate, unrelated, organization by the name of Freedom From Religion Foundation (FFRF). You've no doubt seen their television commercials with President Reagan's son, Ron. The Military Religious Freedom Foundation is different. It is not an atheist organization. It is a secular civil rights advocacy organization of which approximately 96% of its current and retired armed forces clients are Christian as are about 80% of the Foundation staffers.

Given that this has occurred a number of times I would like to ask a favor. Would you please have someone in the Fox News legal department, preferably an attorney who knows something about the law of libel and slander, call me so that I can have a conversation with them about what in the world it is going to take to impress upon you the need to stop doing this.

The whole point of a lawyer writing letters such as the ones I have written to you is to avoid litigation. I regret that I do not seem to be making much progress in avoiding that. You might bear in mind, and your own lawyer can of course advise you about it, that your insurance coverage for defamation may not apply to something that is intentionally done and repeated over a period of time.

Very truly yours,

Randal Mathis
